HOLLYWOOD DADS

Gavin's Silly Sons

Gavin and his band, Bush, are working on new music, their best yet, he tells Us.

» Laughter is the best medicine! That's why Gavin Rossdale is "the proudest person in the world" when his three sons crack jokes, the musician, 53, tells Us. Humor, he believes, isn't just the best way for Kingston, 12, Zuma, 10, and Apollo, 5, whom he shares with his ex-wife, Gwen Stefani, "to learn and think and reflect," but allows the boys to "laugh through the hardest of times." Us catches up with the rocker dad. What else do you think is important to teach them?

GR I may not be the best father in the world, but I made my kids think and be rational. Most people are [formed by] other people's opinions, and I don't want them to be that. If they can think for themselves and find a pursuit that's their passion, I've done my job.

Would you like your sons to follow in your musical footsteps?

GR I think it's a terrible idea because it's such a crapshoot. I try to instill in them to think differently, think outside the box and pursue what they love. Everything else follows.

Do you have any coparenting tips?

GR All I care about are those three boys.

What would you say to someone expecting their first child?

GR It's wonderful. It's the best. I mean, it's a nightmare, they ruin your life, but they just give you a new life.

GWEN STEFANI

"We are so blessed every morning to see her," Justin tells Us about Genevieve.

BATTING FOR BABY GIRL

» He's got a major-league career and a supermodel wife, but life got even better for Justin Verlander when he and Kate Upton, 26, welcomed baby Genevieve five months ago. "I don't think you can prepare someone for that type of connection," he tells Us. "People tell you about this connection between a father and a daughter, but I don't think you can really appreciate it until you experience it for yourself." For the Houston Astros pitcher, 36, bonding with his little girl means letting her see him on the field. "She might motivate me to play longer," he says, so "she can remember me as a baseball player instead of having to watch old highlight videos!"

Feeling the Fame

Simon Cowell, Mr. Nice Guy? Yes, when it comes to his son! The America's Got Talent judge, 59, gets a lot of attention, and 5-year-old Eric has noticed! "He said, 'Daddy, how come everybody smiles at you?'" Simon tells Us. Dad's response? "No, it's you. From the minute you were born, everybody knew your first name."

SIMON COWELL

Ready for Round 2

Time for a bigger brood? Ray J wants to have another baby with his wife, Princess Love, after welcoming their first child, Melody, in May 2018. That way, the future siblings can "be friends and protect each other," the rapper, 38, tells Us. He's hoping for a little boy to round out a "perfect family" but admitted his wife may push for "three or four" kids total.

LoveLives

"We work hard at our relationship," Rita tells Us.

RITA & TOM

Everlasting Love

➔ Want to know the secret to Rita Wilson and Tom Hanks's marriage of nearly 31 years? Turns out it's pretty simple. "We really like each other and being together," the singer and actress, 62, told Us at her star unveiling on the Hollywood Walk of Fame on March 29. At the end of the day, Rita and her Academy Award-winning hubby, also 62, "support each other and keep the communication channels open. That's always important."

DANA & JORDIN

Her Favorite Boys

➔ She's young and in love! Jordin Sparks, 29, is living the blissed-out life when it comes to her family: model-hubby Dana Isaiah (since 2017) and baby Dana Jr., 11 months. "I adore him," Jordin says of the elder Dana, 26. "It's easy to keep the love alive when you adore somebody." As for the little one, "[DJ] is the greatest thing that's ever happened to me," she tells Us. "His smile, his laugh — it's medicinal, almost."

SACHA & ISLA

Busy Bees

➔ Sacha Baron Cohen, 47, and Isla Fisher, 43, who've been married for nine years, have such busy careers it's not always easy to spend time together — sometimes literally! At the premiere of her film The Beach Bum, the two couldn't even find each other at first. "It's nice to connect, and it's so important," she told Us. When the parents of three — Olive, 11, Elula, 8, and Montgomery, 4 — do get a date night, "we like to see a movie," she says.

The Little Things

Rollies and Range Rovers may do it for some, but for Piper Perabo, 42, "small gestures... are the most powerful." When she told her husband of nearly five years, Stephen Kay, 56, that she liked oatmeal, "he started making the most amazing oatmeal," she tells Us.

SCHOOL OF HARD KNOCKS

Felicity Huffman takes responsibility for her actions

Felicity Huffman and 13 other defendants in the college admissions scam (Lori Loughlin not among them) have agreed to plead guilty, the U.S. Attorney's Office announced on April 8. "I am in full acceptance of my guilt," the actress — who paid $15,000 in a cheating scheme for her daughter Sophia's SATs in 2017 — said in a statement. "I have betrayed [my daughter]," she continues. "This transgression toward her and the public I will carry for the rest of my life." While Felicity, 56, could face a four- to 16-month prison sentence, according to Lou Shapiro, a state and federal criminal defense attorney in LA, she "recognized she needed to take full responsibility," a source tells Us, noting that she wanted to "end this nightmare."

"My daughter knew absolutely nothing of my actions," Felicity said.

QUEER EYE'S FISH STICK MAKEOVER

Baked Crunchy Fish Fillets Puttanesca

INGREDIENTS

2–3 Gorton's Crunchy
Breaded Fish
Fillets
2 tbsp capers
¼ cup black and green olives, pitted
1½ cups cherry
tomatoes
1 tsp red wine vinegar
1 clove garlic
½ shallot
2 tsp olive oil
Chili flakes, to taste
Fresh oregano and black pepper, for garnish

INSTRUCTIONS

- 1 Combine all ingredients (except fish fillets) in a blender or food processor. Pulse until mixture is incorporated but still chunky and textured.
- 2 Pour sauce contents into a small baking dish or aluminum foil basket. Place 2–3 fish fillets on a metal baking pan and bake sauce and fish as instructed on Gorton's packaging.
- 3 To serve, spoon sauce on plates and arrange cooked fillets on top. Garnish with fresh oregano and cracked black pepper.

➔ Queer Eye's Antoni Porowski, who's dropping his first cookbook, Antoni in the Kitchen, this fall, wants everyone in the kitchen. The key is to “take one ingredient you like and reinvent it,” he tells Us. Like the egg: “Stop throwing those yellows away, people! They're omega-3s, they're good for you and cheap!” If you keep it simple — and meaningful — cooking becomes a joy. Case in point, Antoni's recipe for fish sticks, which he used to eat as a kid: “They were a lot smaller back then,” he says. “They were literally the size of my pinkie even though I don't have a big pinkie. I would just dip them in offensive amounts of ketchup.”

In preparation for the day she dons the diamond consort crown (below), "Kate has been quietly honing her public speaking skills behind the scenes," reveals a royal insider.

INTRODUCING

Queen

If it was a test, Kate Middleton passed with flying colors. Joining Queen Elizabeth II for their very first solo outing together in mid-March, Kate appeared happy, relaxed and solicitous as the pair braved a chilly day to tour a new wing at King's College in London — and made such a positive impression, royal watchers are still talking about it. “The queen has so much admiration for Kate,” says an insider. “She sees her as intelligent, warm and professional. She doesn’t crack under pressure, and she’s loved by the public. Really, she ticks all the boxes.”

No doubt there will be more outings to come. The college tour was one of many events, both private and public, designed to prepare the Duchess of Cambridge, 36, for her next big role: royal consort, a.k.a. Queen Kate. Though Prince William’s father, Prince Charles, 70, is set to take over as king once the queen retires, 37-year-old William will be crowned upon Charles’ retirement. At that point, Kate’s title also will change — and Queen Elizabeth is determined to make sure her granddaughter-in-law is ready. “Kate’s been taking on new responsibilities little by little over the last few years, so it won’t be a shock when the time comes,” royal expert Rebecca Long tells Us. “William and Kate are the favorite royals to take the crown in many generations, so the people of the U.K. are very excited about it.”

PRIVATE TRAINING

Kate is as well. As a commoner, she wasn’t prepared from birth to become one of Great Britain’s most important public figures. But she takes her position very seriously — and is intent on becoming a queen who’ll make the royal family proud. In recent years, the insider says, Kate’s made a point of bonding with — and learning from — her husband’s grandmother, 92, so that she may one day fill her very important shoes. “Kate and the queen have always had a special bond, but they developed a deeper friendship after she and William moved from Anmer Hall, Norfolk, to Kensington Palace, which is within walking distance of Buckingham Palace,” the insider explains, adding that, unbeknownst to the public, Kate frequently visits the queen at home. “Sometimes they’ll casually catch up over afternoon tea,” the insider says. “But other times, they’ll have more formal meetings, where the queen will give intense one-on-one training about taking on the crown.”

In addition to the queen, royal aides have been schooling Kate in responsibilities and etiquette — but the monarch has given the training a more personal touch. “She’s told her a lot about her own experiences,” the insider says. “She’s really taken Kate under her wing. The two of them will often spend hours discussing royal life and the future of the monarchy.”

“Kate’s not a naturally confident person,” says a palace source, adding that the queen, along with a team of royal aides, is helping her “find her voice” for her future role.

PASSING THE CROWN

The queen has also told her about the crowning ceremony itself, which is bound to be one of the most-watched public events in recent history. “Kate will be crowned alongside William at his coronation in Westminster Abbey,” Paul Burrell, who served as butler to William’s mother, Princess Diana, tells Us. “She’ll be crowned queen and be his consort, much in the same way the Queen Mother was [to Queen Elizabeth II’s father, George VI].”

Kate

The Duchess of Cambridge, Kate Middleton, is getting ready for prime time

And quite a crown she'll wear. Created by the crown jeweler Garrard in 1937, the diamond consort crown features as its centerpiece the breathtaking 105-carat Koh-I-Noor diamond.

Of course, being queen will involve a lot more than wearing jewels. Besides "supporting William at public events," Long says, Kate will be expected to increase her charitable work — which will most likely still focus on children's issues. "She'll continue to pursue her passions, which she'll balance with being a mother to her children and being queen."

AS WILLIAM IS BEING REPOSITIONED
IN A MORE SENIOR
ROLE, SO IS KATE.
WE WILL BE HEARING
A LOT MORE
FROM HER.”

A ROYAL INSIDER

Until she assumes the crown, though, Kate will be supporting not just her husband but also her father-in-law and his wife. "The focus moving forward is on setting the Cambriges up as future rulers, so we'll likely see William and Kate on a lot of engagements with Charles and Camilla," says another royal source, adding that Kate will "take on more senior duties" over the next few years. "She'll be expected to focus on a broader range of topics and support William in any way possible."

It sounds like a lot of hard work for a mother of three youngsters. "William and the children mean everything to Kate, so she's determined to create a healthy balance between her personal life and her future role," the insider adds. Says another palace source, "It's taken a long time for Kate to get to where she is today, but she's ready."

US

Even as she assumes more royal responsibilities by William's side, Kate's determined to remain a hands-on mom to Prince Louis, Princess Charlotte and Prince George.

What Would Diana Think?

» According to Princess Diana's former butler, Paul Burrell, England would be elated to see William and Kate ascend the throne. "A young king in touch with the people, Diana's son with a beautiful queen and an adorable family... would uphold the future and longevity of the monarchy." One can only imagine that Diana would feel the same about her oldest son. Adds Burrell, "William has his mother's touch and has the ability to reach, to listen and to be understanding. It would take the monarchy to another level and back onto the world stage in a proper and meaningful way."

Memory lane, much? Meghan and Harry's new ready-for-baby abode is situated on the same grounds as the stunning Frogmore House, the site of their 2018 wedding reception.

MEGHAN & HARRY

Getting Ready for Baby in Their New Home!

The convention-shirking Sussexes have moved to the country and "want their kids raised in a normal home," says a source.

In mid-January, a calm Duchess of Sussex rubbed her protruding belly amid a gaggle of well-wishers and shared that she and Prince Harry were "so excited" about the late-April arrival of their first child. Beaming, she declared, "We're ready!"

But the newest royal might have been dabbling in some wishful thinking — considering that the next couple months were a mad dash to complete a reportedly £3 million renovation of the Sussexes' new countryside residence of Frogmore Cottage. Only now, confirms a source, after Harry, 34, and Meghan, 37, have finally moved into their revamped manse on the Windsor grounds, have the parents-to-be truly felt "ready" for their littlest heir to arrive. The source reports that the moving trucks "finished delivering the final furniture and home items" on April 8, and that the discerning couple "are very happy with how the cottage turned out."

Specifically, says the source, the house (which comes complete with soundproof walls and triple-glazed windows) provides privacy, which Meghan required. It's one reported reason she and Harry opted against settling in a Kensington Palace apartment neighboring Prince William and Kate Middleton and instead set their sights on the more-remote Frogmore, a gift from the queen.

A palace insider suggests that the Sussexes plan to give their baby not just a cozy country childhood but a "normal" one as well. They're reportedly not keen on bestowing a royal title on the baby, and their new home, while "great," says the insider, "is not a palace. Meghan has knowledge Harry's never been exposed to, coming from an unconventional family. Their child will have security and live a life of luxury — but that doesn't mean he or she will be spoiled."

The insider adds that unlike Kate, Meghan doesn't intend to take an extended maternity leave, and that the devoted philanthropist — who, along with Harry, has asked for donations to children's charities in lieu of baby gifts via their new Instagram page (above) — "plans to return to work as soon as possible. She came into the royal family with so many goals and plans on forging ahead."

The Jolie-Pitt children live in a $25 million mansion and travel the world in private jets, but at heart, they're like any other kids. At a special Dumbo screening in LA on March 11, Angelina Jolie let Zahara, 14, Shiloh, 12, and 10-year-old balancing work and family while trying to guide her children, insiders say. "She's very much there with them," Angelina's dad, Jon Voight, tells Us. Those closest to the Oscar-winning actress say that in the two and a half years since splitting from

They eat hot dogs, take martial arts classes and have playdates with a Stranger Things star. Insiders reveal what it's really like for Angelina Jolie's kids twins Knox and Vivienne (Maddox, 17, and Pax, 15, didn't attend) gobble up corn dogs and hot dogs, chili cheese fries, cupcakes and candy. "They were really chowing down," a witness says. "Angelina seemed relaxed and unbothered." According to a source, it's because she's a softie when it comes to her brood: "She indulges the kids and wants to give them everything they want. It's hard for her to say no."

Most moms can relate. Despite her wealth and fame, Angelina, 43, is just a single parent the children's father, Brad Pitt, 55, she's fostered a normal, educational, down-to-earth environment. Yes, the kids get to attend red carpet events, but they also grab family meals at the Griddle Cafe diner on Sunset Boulevard. "She's always coming up with fun things to do," says an Angelina source. "Her kids are her life."

TIME FLIES
And as the children enter adolescence (and young adulthood — Maddox is off to college in the fall!), she dotes on them even more. "It's just amazing to have kids and watch them grow; you realize the preciousness of time and how short our lives really are," Jon says. With that in mind, the actress, who lives with the kids in an 11,000-square-foot home in LA's Los Feliz neighborhood, is determined to make every moment count.

"She really likes the life lessons and new ideas that come from trying all different things. The sky's the limit for her," says the source. "Every day is a new adventure." That could

"I'm very proud of her," Jon Voight tells Us about Angelina's motherhood skills.

"Angie [here with Knox, Zahara, Vivienne and Shiloh] has taught her kids to believe that anything is possible," a source says.

mean anything from a trip to a Buddhist temple to having them spend time with influential thinkers and artists such as Loung Ung, author of First They Killed My Father (Angie directed the 2017 film version), and Cambodian rapper and filmmaker PraCh Ly, says an insider.

Giving them unique experiences is all part of Angie's plan to help them become the best people they can be. "Everything I do, I hope that I represent... the right things to my children," she told the BBC in 2017.

For Angelina, that means listening to their needs and wants. "If one of them is interested in something, she really fosters that and makes it happen," says the source. "If one of them wants to paint, they go and get supplies. If they want to take up a new sport, she makes it happen." Pax, for example, takes boxing classes, while Zahara is learning self-defense and martial arts. Shiloh and Knox, for their part, have spent time studying "mechanical engineering and real-world robotics," says the insider.

FUN AND GAMES

Of course, it's not just sports and academics. "Angie is very hands-on; she cooks with them, does crafting and art projects and loves taking them out to lunch or to the movies," says the source. She also sets up dates with Stranger Things star Millie Bobby Brown, whose mom, Kelly, is a close friend of Angie's.

And now that Pax and Maddox are older, she gives them the freedom to do what they want. "They're busy doing their own thing," says the source. "They spend less time than they used to with the younger kids and the family."

But that gives Angelina more time to devote to her little ones. "The younger kids do stuff with Angie almost every day," says the source, especially Vivienne, who has a "very sweet bond" with her mom: "She's really the baby of the family. They're incredibly close and enjoy being together." The same is true of all her children, says the source: "Angie likes to spend one-on-one time with them and makes it a point to do special outings with each of them."

She's certainly enjoying it while it lasts. As the star's said, she doesn't expect her kids to settle in LA — after all, she's strived to make them citizens of the world. Asked about the future, Angie said recently, "In five years' time, I would like to be traveling around the world visiting my children, hoping that they're just happy." And isn't that every parent's wish? US

» Nearly three years after it first began, the acrimonious divorce between Angelina Jolie and Brad Pitt still rages on. Though they've hammered out custody of the kids — Brad and Angie share physical and legal custody — their negotiations about money are a "slog" and "extremely slow," according to a source. But some progress is being made. After accusing Brad last year of not paying "meaningful" child support, Angelina is getting more cash in the short term. According to a source, she's receiving "substantial" temporary child support payments from Brad until thorough accounting can be conducted. Confirms the source, "Brad has been contributing."

IN THE SHADE ROOM WITH KIM

The reality star and sunglass designer gets candid with Us about her style evolution — including some self-described fashion faux pas! BY SOPHIE DWECK

Having a mom as style-focused as Kim Kardashian West has its perks. For instance, everything North, 5, Saint, 3, and Chicago, 15 months, wear is custom-made. “It’s so much fun,” says Kim, 38, noting that husband Kanye West came up with the idea. “He was like, ‘If you want [North] to look cool, only have cool stuff in the closet.’” Luckily for the kids, the soon-to-be mother of four — a baby boy is due in May via surrogate — is making sure her little ones don’t repeat any of her mistakes. “I have a million cringeworthy moments,” the style icon recalls of her early ’00s looks. Kim, who recently collaborated with Carolina Lemke on a line of sunnies, keeps Us up to speed with her fashionista family.

What’s been your biggest style regret?

KKW I die when I see myself in an Ed Hardy shirt with a hat. And also baggy dresses. That’s so not me.

Has your look changed since becoming a mom?

KKW I never wore flats before. I never even wore sneakers out before, besides working out, and then the athleisure vibe started. Kanye’s [Yeezy] sneakers got me into that.

It’s definitely more comfortable.

KKW I wish that the casual-sweat style was

When it comes to fashion, “I like to match,” says the mom, here with her crew.

“I really do like a visor,” Kim tells Us about this style, one of seven from her Carolina Lemke x Kim Kardashian West sunglass collection ($90 each).

cool when I was pregnant because I would've had life so easy. I was wearing fancy looks like Givenchy and Valentino when I was pregnant, so I had to wear heels. It was the worst.

Is North into fashion?

KKW She loves to get dressed. It's so much fun for me to see how her personal style is evolving and what she's into. She fully picks her outfits!

Some of your outfits are sexier than others. What do the kids think of that?

KKW My son is actually so overprotective about what I wear. So if I wear anything too sexy, he'll run over and throw a blanket to me. I've never seen someone so overprotective.

And if he likes what you're wearing?

KKW He'll just be like, "Mom, that looks good."

You can wear that." He's so opinionated, it's funny.

When does Kanye think you look your sexiest?

KKW He definitely loves [me] dressed up, but he likes the whole look. It's not just one thing. It has to be the best hair, the best makeup and the best accessories.

What about if you're dressed down?

KKW He likes the overall, whatever's done to the fullest — whether it's sweats or pajamas.

If you could swap closets with any of your sisters, who would you choose?

KKW Maybe Kendall [Jenner] — not that her stuff would fit me!

What's the most sentimental item you have in your closet?

KKW Obviously stuff from my dad [the late Robert Kardashian]. [My sister] Kourtney and I were talking about this. When he passed away, we put everything in storage, then we cleaned it out a few years ago. I wish we'd waited even longer because I probably would've taken some more things.

What did you take?

KKW I took a lot of shirts, and I actually had them cut down into my son's size. So he wears his little Tommy Bahama shirts or old Fila stuff. It's fun to see that. US

Kim calls her Ed Hardy look from 2007 "not cute."

GAME OF THRONES

Prepare for the Long Night! Us rounds up 26 secrets, stats and spoilers from HBO's hit show, which will come to an end with the eighth and final season, premiering April 14

A | IS FOR AZOR AHAI

A prophecy in the faith of R'hllor (practiced by Carice van Houten's Melisandre) foretells this messianic figure will be reborn as the Prince or Princess That Was Promised and save the world from darkness. Fans debate whether Jon, Daenerys — or even Tyrion! — fits the bill.

B | IS FOR BATTLE OF WINTERFELL

The Starks' ancestral home is the setting for what is believed to be the longest battle sequence ever committed to film: season 8's epic clash between the living and the dead (and dragons!), which was shot over 54 nights in frigid Northern Ireland. Most of the show's major characters are involved, including Jon, Daenerys, Brienne, Arya and Sansa. The work was so grueling, one of the show's lead actresses even fainted — but reported for work again the next day.

C | IS FOR COMIC BOOKS

D | IS FOR DUBROVNIK, CROATIA

The city that doubles as King's Landing has gotten such a massive influx of tourists that the mayor put a cap on the number of visitors in order to preserve the Unesco-protected medieval areas.

E | IS FOR EPISODES

There are just six episodes in the final season, ranging in length from 54 to 80 minutes.

F | IS FOR FURS

Kit Harington recently complained that costume designer Michele Clapton "added weight to [Jon's cloak] every year." Not Sam's Night's Watch cape: Clapton famously used a dyed $30 Ikea Rens sheepskin rug for that one!

G | IS FOR GEORGE R.R. MARTIN

The author has two more books to write in the Song of Ice and Fire series. "Obviously, I wished I'd finished sooner so the show hadn't gotten ahead of me," he says. (Spoiler: They end the same way!)

H | IS FOR HBO

Bracing for the loss of its most popular series of all time, the cable network has announced that a prequel, starring Naomi Watts and set about 5,000 years before the current timeline, will begin filming in June.

I | IS FOR IRON THRONE

Look for it at Game of Thrones Legacy, a Belfast, Northern Ireland, tourist attraction that will feature the show's iconic sets and a studio tour.

J | IS FOR JASON MOMOA

The star got his big break as Khal Drogo after doing a Maori haka at his audition — like the one he performed at last year's Aquaman premiere. The casting directors "were very scared," he's admitted.

K | IS FOR KIT HARINGTON

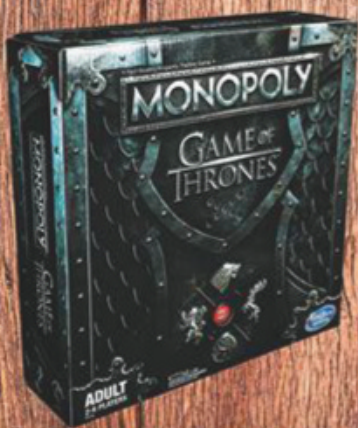

"The end of the world might be coming, but at least he's in love and knows who he is — and then comes a sledgehammer," the star teases of Jon, who has unwittingly fallen for his aunt, Daenerys (Emilia Clarke).

L | IS FOR LORD OF THE RINGS

Blame J.R.R. Tolkien for the Red Wedding. Martin was inspired by the author's work (they even share middle initials!), especially after reading about Gandalf's death at age 13. "The suspense of everything that follows is a thousand times greater, because now anybody could die," he's said. "That's had a profound effect on my own willingness to kill characters off at the drop of a hat."

M | IS FOR MONOPOLY

Buy Casterly Rock instead of Boardwalk! Hasbro released a GoT version of its iconic game earlier this year.

N | IS FOR NIGHT KING

The terrifying leader of the White Walkers has one person in his sights. "People will see he has a target he wants to kill, and you'll find out who that is," actor Vladimir Furdik teases of the final season.

O | IS FOR ODDS

According to Las Vegas book-maker Bovada, as of March, Bran had the greatest chance of sitting on the Iron Throne at the end of the series, followed closely by Jon.

P | IS FOR PRIYANKA CHOPRA

Did this actress get spoiled? Her BFF and future sister-in-law Sophie Turner has admitted, "I'm so bad at keeping secrets. I've already told the ending to a few people."

Q | IS FOR QYBURN

Cersei's shady Hand of the Queen (Anton Lesser) has already brought back the Mountain from the dead — how far will he go to get a closer look at the undead enemy?

R | IS FOR ROYALS

Duchess Kate and Prince William are fans of the show — and Queen Elizabeth II has also visited the set. (She declined to try out the Iron Throne, though, because protocol forbids her to sit on a foreign throne, even a fictional one!)

S | IS FOR SCROLL

One of the props Sophie took home was a scroll, given to her by a crew member on her last day. "It's a huge spoiler for season 8," she says, "so I've kept it in the depths of my wallet, never to be seen by anyone."

T | IS FOR TORMUND GIANTSBANE

He made it! Though his presence at the Wall while it fell at the end of season 7 seemed to have spelled his doom, this Free Folk fan favorite (Kristofer Hivju) is in the season 8 trailer.

U | IS FOR ULTRABOOST

Run like a White Walker. In March, Adidas released a capsule collection of these sneakers inspired by the show's different factions.

V | IS FOR "VALAR MORGHULIS"

Meaning "all men must die" in High Valyrian, this is one of the only foreign phrases Martin included in his books.

The show hired linguist David J. Peterson to invent an alphabet, vocabulary and grammar rules for the rest of Daenerys' mother tongue, along with two other languages: Dothraki and Skroth, which was originally intended to be spoken by the White Walkers.

W | IS FOR WRITERS' GUILD OF AMERICA WEST LIBRARY

Read the scripts at this LA institution for answers the show didn't necessarily make clear. Among them? According to season 7 stage directions, Tyrion (Peter Dinklage) is in romantic love with Daenerys, and Cersei wasn't lying about being pregnant.

X | IS FOR XARO KHOAN DAXOS

Mahershala Ali was up for the part of season 2's merchant of Qarth, but blew the audition. "I had this whole thing worked out with a chair... doing power moves and stances," the two-time Oscar winner has said. "And then I go in to the offices and there's two [backless] stools!"

Y | IS FOR YARA GREYJOY

Despite her absence from the trailer and promo photos, actress Gemma Whelan assured fans in a tweet that Theon's tough-as-nails sister would appear in the final season.

Z | IS FOR ZOMBIE

One script playfully calls the wights "zombies but not zombies; we have our own thing." And Nikolaj Coster-Waldau (Jaime, with Lena Headey as Cersei) predicted — welp! — in 2017: "You know some of the main characters are going to get turned. God, I hope it's not me."

US MUSTS

Welcome to the Party!

Name a more fascinating duo than Snoop Dogg and Martha Stewart — we'll wait! For the new season of their show, the hosts have added a battle theme and renamed it Martha & Snoop's Potluck Party Challenge (VH1, Wednesdays, 10 P.M.). "This is magic right here," says the rapper, 47, of his bond with the 77-year-old chef. They let Us into their kitchen.

What are you most excited about with season 3?

SD I'm looking forward to people learning our new recipes and just seeing our camaraderie and our relationship unfold on screen. MS Our audience is building. We have a lot of new people [tuning in]. It's really broadened my demographic, and it's certainly broadened his! Would you ever do a cookbook together? SD I'm not on her level yet. MS But he just did a cookbook [From Crook to Cook: Platinum Recipes From Tha Boss Dogg's Kitchen]. It's really good; I wrote the foreword.

SD You're going to teach me to be great.

What's your dream dish to create together?

MS Snoop's very picky. He doesn't want to eat caviar, he won't eat lobster...

SD I won't touch a lobster.

MS We're trying uni next.

SD What's that?

MS Sea urchin. You'd love it.

What surprises you about each other?

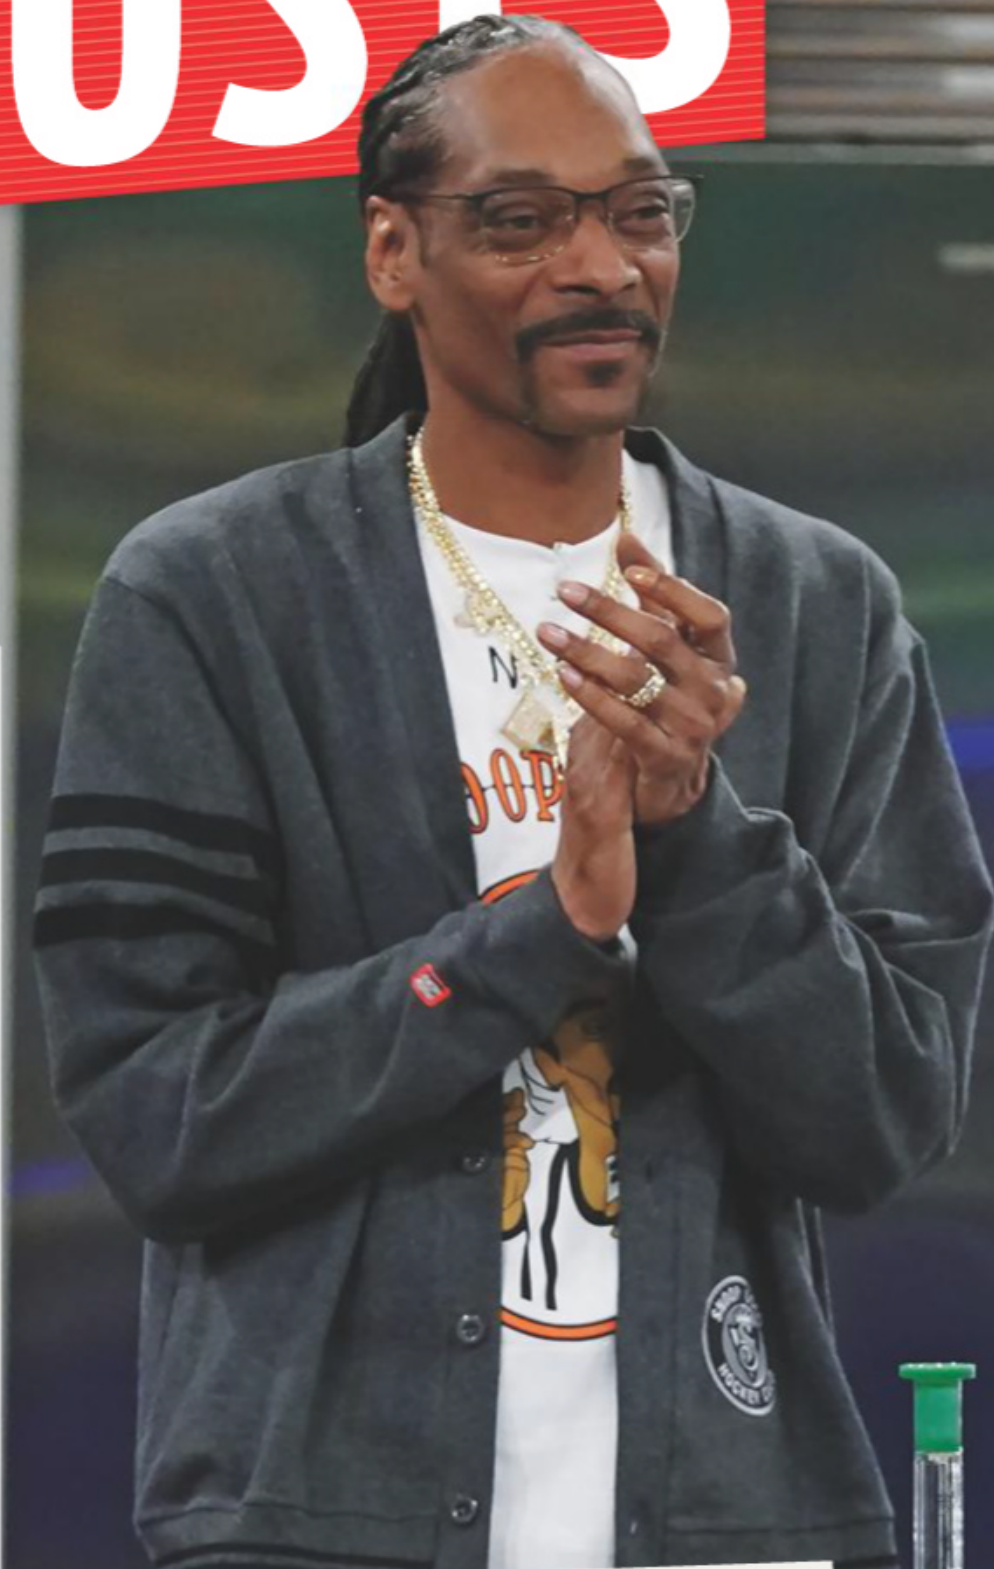

MS He learns really quickly. Also, I thought he'd be a klutz, but he's not at all.

What do you do together outside of the show?

You've joked about smoking together.

MS Oh, I won't.

SD She won't! She's scared, but she gets me drunk every chance she gets!

This season, Isla Fisher guest-judges an episode with Method Man.

If you've seen a body-switching movie — 13 Going on 30, Freaky Friday, Shazam! — then you already know the importance of being true to yourself at any age. This breezy comedy barely manages to sell the musty message. Jordan (Regina Hall) is a nerd turned demanding tech mogul who breaks up office birthday parties and won't let anyone eat carbs. She's also a tyrant to her devoted assistant, April (Issa Rae). "I used to be little," she sneers to one quivering teen. "Then I got big and rich!" And, poof! The next morning, Jordan's aghast to learn she's reverted to her frizzy-haired, bespectacled 13-year-old self (Marsai Martin). Mini Jordan is a hilarious diva in overalls, especially when April sends her back to school (where she hits on her teacher, played by Justin Hartley). But the gimmick's appeal wears off long before the magic spell does. And though Marsai is fantastic, it's at the expense of keeping the hilarious Regina off the big screen. MARA REINSTEIN, MARAMOVIES.COM

Black-ish star Marsai pitched the idea for the film — when she was 10!

Did any of them reach out to you? EF Katy reached out and said she loved it, and that was so cool. It was very exciting. I've heard you say you've always wanted to do something musical. EF I think what's so great about this industry is that you can cross over. Scarlett Johansson did an album, and now Lady Gaga [is in a movie]! I think people are more accepting. It's not so black and white.

Would you ever pursue a music career?

EF I'd be open to that, but I'd never give up acting.

Was your older sister, Dakota, involved in the film at all?

EF She's obviously been a huge influence in so many aspects of my life, but especially when it came to getting into the business. We have similar taste in music. She loves Robyn's "Dancing on My Own," so I was like, "I want to do a good cover for her!"

"I'm grateful to have somebody so brilliant in this dream project," director Max says of Elle.

Ryan admits it's scary to be open about his disability but knows it's worth it. "Disabled people's stories have been ignored for so long, which sends the message that our lives aren't worth exploring," he says. The eight-episode series also depicts sex scenes realistically, which Ryan thought would be the most difficult to shoot: "It was terrifying at first, but then you get used to it and it's sort of liberating!"

MR. MISTOFFEELES / CATS ORIGINAL CAST RECORDING

I loved Cats as a kid and dressed up as a cat for three years after I saw it. I painted myself gold. My daughter requested it and we've been pumping it!

WHITE FERRARI / FRANK OCEAN

How does he do it? It's just magic. The way the textures, sonically, and melodies come in and out? It's genius work. I love that record.

ANYWHERE / ANDERSON .PAAK

It's just that classic G-funk-style production. It feels like a throwback. It's a feel-good summer song that I played throughout the entire fall and winter.

2009 / MAC MILLER

Mac was a genius when it came to creating melodies, and this one just captures something. Its spirit gets me emotional and makes me appreciate life.

Recently discovered ingredient promotes MORE HAIR GROWTH

Tocotrienols, found in palm fruit, are known as super antioxidants and are now showing positive results in promoting hair growth. They work by lowering scalp oxidation and may allow for better—and new—hair growth.

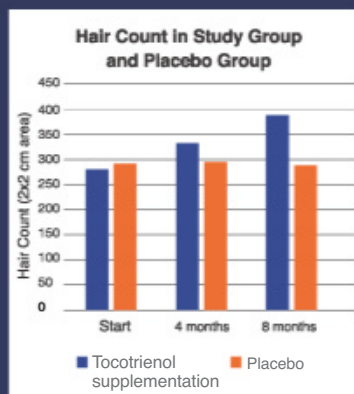

Several studies done at the University of Kuala Lumpur in Malaysia have shown significant increases in hair count. The findings have been published in scientific journals to inform health care professionals worldwide, about the amazing results.

The US patented tocotrienol complex is now available in the US through the product Hair Gro™, by New Nordic, and sold at most Walgreens pharmacies and online.

STUDY RESULTS

Researchers studied an area of the scalp equal to 2x2 cm and counted the hairs at the beginning of the study, at 4 months and at 8 months. At the end of the study, the participants on the tocotrienol supplement had gained on average 34.5% more hair or an increase in average hair count from 285 to 383 hairs.*

*Tropical Life Sciences Research 2010 "Effects of Tocotrienol Supplementation on Hair Growth in Human Volunteers" Beoy, Woei and Hay, University Sains Malaysia.

HAIR GRO WORKS!

Steffani experienced higher-than-usual hair loss due to stress. "I was concerned as I noticed a drastic difference in the thickness of my hair, so I went looking for help."

"My mother had used New Nordic's hair products with great success, and she had seen the new Hair Gro™ product in stores. I went online and read about how the ingredients were clinically shown to stimulate new hair growth. I was excited.

I planned to take Hair Gro for just a few months, but my mother reminded me that hair takes a while to react. I'm glad I listened to her because after 4-5 months, I started to notice an increase in growth and it was easier to grow the hair longer. My friends even noticed the difference.

Now I feel so confident and happy about my hair, thanks to Hair Gro. I highly recommend this product to anyone with thin hair."

THINGS YOU DON'T KNOW ABOUT ME

BY Daymond John

The Shark Tank investor and CEO of FUBU, 50, lets Us in on his business

Shark Tank airs on ABC, Sundays at 10 P.M.

1. Miami is my favorite place in the world. I love the water, restaurants and nightlife.

2. If I could sum up my life in a hashtag, it would be #sauceontheside.

3. My celebrity crush is Salma Hayek.

4. Falling in love with Golden Corral has been my biggest regret in life.

5. The last time I belly-laughed was [in February] at my '80s-themed 50th-birthday party, in a conga line, dressed in an Alf outfit.

6. I'm an avid fisherman.

7. I'm embarrassed to say the last time I cried was while watching [1998's] Armageddon, when Bruce Willis says he has to break his promise.

8. The hardest lesson I've had to learn is financial intelligence.

9. My mom is the most influential person in my life. She taught me everything I know.

10. The worst movie I love to watch is [2008's] Tropic Thunder.

11. I'd like to be remembered for inspiring people to see their full potential and change their lives for the better.

12. My personal mantra is: Anything worth doing is worth overdoing.

13. My worst personality trait? After I learn something I didn't know, I look at everyone as idiots because they don't know it either.

14. The biggest misconception about me is that I'm a hard-core, stuck-up business guy who never has fun.

15. I'd want Taye Diggs to play me in a movie about my life. He's a great actor and way better looking.

16. My lucky number is seven.

17. I have a superstition that if things start out amazing, they'll probably blow up.

18. The emoji that I use most is the praying one.

19. My favorite fast-food restaurant is McDonald's. I always order a Quarter Pounder with cheese.

20. The most frequent Shark Tank question I get asked is, "What's your biggest regret?"

21. My not-so-secret hobby is that I'm a beekeeper.

22. I sleep about four hours per night.

23. I start my day by not replying to emails for two hours. I only send emails.

24. I recently recorded a motivational album.

25. I believe failure is the key to success.
